Director's Notes

Having grown up watching the original version of Noel Coward's Blythe Spirit and loving it, I have always felt that ghost stories have a lot of entertainment value. So having covered a talent show, a package holiday, a department store and a wedding in my previous scripts, I decided it was time for a story about a haunted hotel.

It has been enormous fun working with the cast of 17 and I thank them for their enthusiasm, dedication and sense of humour while we rehearsed to bring my vision to life. My Assistant Director, Georgie Bancroft, has a wealth of knowledge and experience and is herself a highly accomplished actor. My deepest gratitude to her for her unwavering support and for standing in as director on many occasions so that I could also work as musical director. She has also overseen costumes which has been very much appreciated. My thanks to Nas Chillcott who has worked tirelessly on props and has produced some amazing items, the cocktails look good enough to drink! Thank you to Tony Garwood who has designed some stunning videos and projected images which will enhance our performances considerably. Our choreographers: Georgie, Ian, Nas and Tony, have created energetic dance routines which bring our songs to life, so my grateful thanks to them. Having a prompt keeps the show on track if lines do go awry, thank you Elliott for all your support in rehearsals and also on show night.

Finally, my thanks to you for supporting Peacehaven Players and coming along to see this show. We all love rehearsals, but performing to a live audience is why we do this, your applause is our reward, so feel free to clap along to the songs, laugh out loud at the jokes, and we hope you will go home with a smile on your face.

I wish you a very enjoyable couple of hours.

With best wishes,

Judith
